

About You

You will have experience in the land development industry in a professional capacity and be an experienced project manager. You may come from a planning, engineering, surveying or architecture background and have experience in coordinating and managing consultant teams on land development projects large and small and perhaps you are looking to utilise your skills in a different way. It is important you are a team player, work well in a collaborative environment and are outcome focussed.

You will also have:

- Land Development experience in a professional capacity
- Proven project management experience
- Experience in coordinating multiple teams
- Excellent communication skills
- Stakeholder engagement experience

If you possess all or most of the skills above and believe you have the qualities and experience that we seek to join our dynamic team ensuring delivery of high-quality land development outcomes, then we would like to hear from you.
